Dear Colonel Tye:

Admiral Turner has asked me to thank you for your letter of June 30th, and for your kind invitation for him to address the Royal Canadian Military Institute at some future date. Unfortunately, the Admiral has so many events already scheduled far into the foreseeable future that it is impossible to take on any additional commitments.

He appreciates your thinking of him, however.

Sincerely,

SIGNED

Admiral Stansfield Turner, USN (Rtd)
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

Acting on a suggestion from the Speakers Committee of this Institute, I am writing to invite you to address a dinner meeting of members of the Institute at some future occasion.

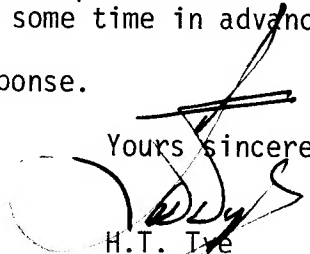

This Institute was founded in 1890 and over the years has been addressed by many distinguished persons from Canada and other countries around the world. We recently had the pleasure of hearing Admiral Zumwalt from your country and your service.

Should this invitation commend itself, we would suggest a date in April or May of next year. We would leave the choice of subject to you but, of course, because of your present position, we would expect that you would dwell on some aspect of the work of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Rather than give more background on the work and the character of this Institute, I am taking the liberty of forwarding herewith a copy of our latest Year-Book which I trust you will find of interest. It is my sincere hope that you will be able to accept our invitation, and I look forward to welcoming you to the Institute. We recognize the difficulties of ensuring that engagements taken some months in advance are not frustrated by unforeseen events, and with this in mind, perhaps your planning might contemplate an alternate should you be unable to take up the commitment. I mention this because we plan our programmes some time in advance.

I look forward to your response.

Yours sincerely,

H.T. Iye
Lieutenant-Colonel
President
